Inspiration and Interpretation

“The most beautiful thing we can experience is the mysterious. It is the source of all true art and all science.” Albert Einstein

I am inspired by the earth, color, light, mystery and turning the ordinary into extraordinary. This inspiration has taken me down many paths of interpretation, from realistic expression to abstraction grounded in the landscape. In all cases my job is to interpret the subject in a way that shares the emotion I experienced in the inspiration.

The work in this exhibit spans more than a decade and features various subjects, mediums, scales and approaches. In preparation for this exhibit, I created new work to deeply explore the successful transformation of inspiration into artistic interpretation. These are some of my most abstract works and yet, as always, they are tethered to the land.

I am honored to be sharing these works with you at the Greenburgh Town Hall Gallery.

All sales will be donated to the Lake Muskoday Homeowners' Association, a non-profit organization that is the steward for and protector of my biggest inspiration throughout life – Lake Muskoday.

This exhibit is both at the gallery and online. Additional paintings can be found online. Email me for information about a painting or if you wish to purchase a piece. carol.sommerfield@gmail.com.
